Orphan little munna, a prey to the tyranny of rich relatives, left home for good. He had never seen his mother, but remembered the description of her given by his father. He had been told that his mother had gone to the house of god. And it was in the house of god, a temple, where he first spotted ganga who matched the description of his mother & won her heart by his smile. Munna's love turned Gangabai into Ganga maa. Munna grew to be an architect of great promise. Young handsome & successful Munna was still a mother's boy, a shy guy who kept away from girls. But another young architect. Roshni erected a beautiful little temple in the heart of this builder of sky-scrapers. Ganga wanted to bring spring of happiness in Munna's life by making roshni her daughter in law but lava of ghastly past, buried deep under the ashes of time, busted into a volcano. Why, how, & what happened thereafter comprises the suspenseful, satirical & sprightly story of Sawan Kumar's "Gomati Ke Kinare"
